

2023

random acts of poetry day

wednesday october 4 • tweetspeakpoetry.com

ts

how to celebrate

Random Acts of Poetry Day is about painting poetry in the public square, either literally or figuratively. This little book will give you ten ideas for how to do that.

Feel like sharing your act pics? Use the hashtag #raopoetryday.

Twitter: @tspoetry

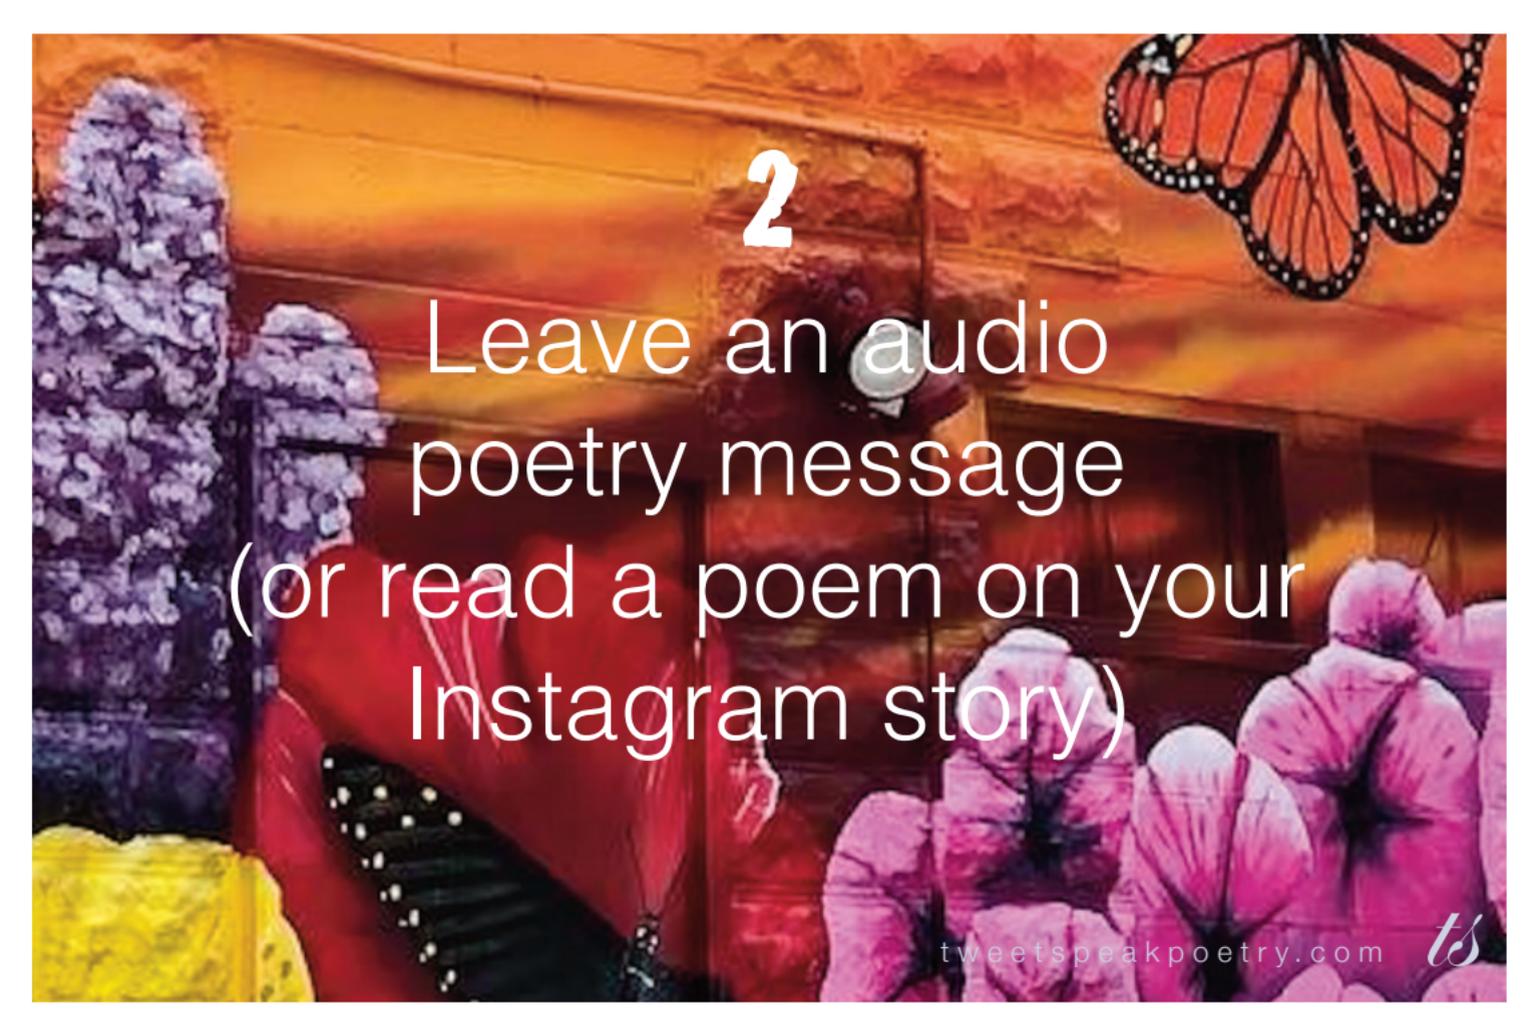

Instagram: tspoetry

tweetspeakpoetry.com

1

Start a Zoom meeting with a poem

2

Leave an audio poetry message (or read a poem on your Instagram story)

3

Leave a poem under the wiper on a car windshield

4

Wear a poem

5

Write a poem on a whiteboard

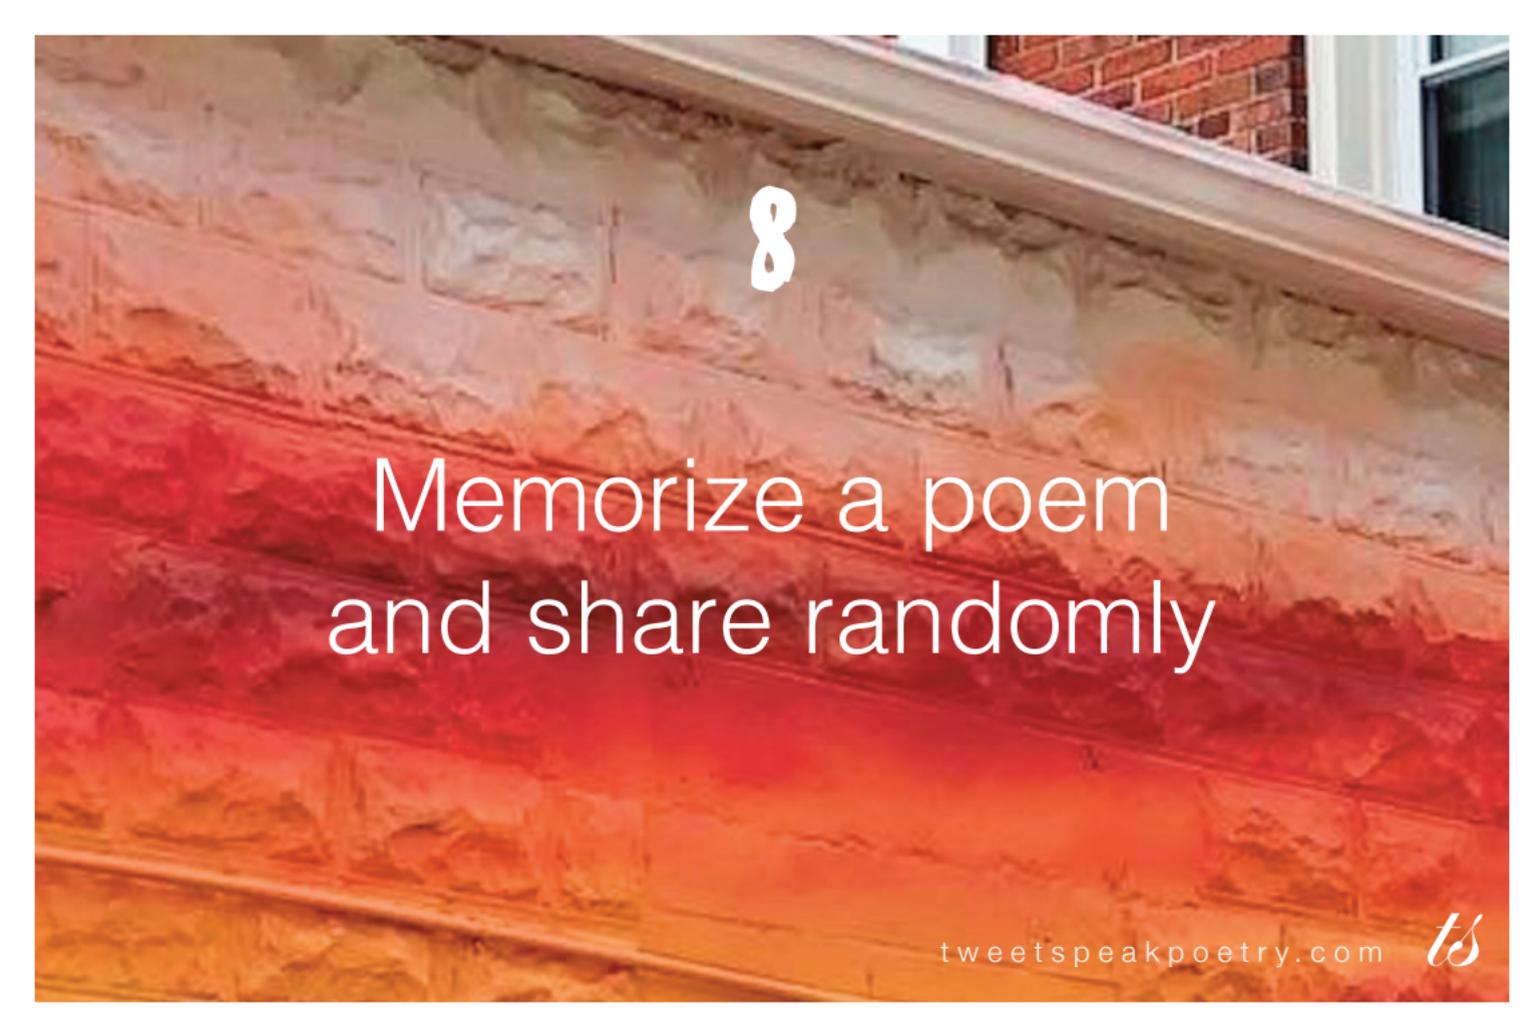

6

Tape a poem
to a bathroom mirror

7

Chalk a poem onto the sidewalk

8

Memorize a poem and share randomly

A vibrant, abstract painting of a door. The door is primarily yellow with a large red flower-like shape on the left. To the right, there are large red and pink flowers, and a blue butterfly with black and white spots on its wings. The background is dark red. The text "Slip a poem under a door" is written in white across the center. A small white number "9" is visible on the door handle area.

Slip a poem under a door

10

Add a poem when you pay

random acts of poetry day many thanks to

Photographer/Art

Rebecca D. Martin / Seth Lubaton in Virginia

Idea Generator

Sonia Barkat